Sixth Grade wrapped up closely reading and analyzing the short story, "The Legend of Sleepy Hollow," by Washington Irving. Our open-story test will be Monday. We read and analyzed poetry, and we read our Independent Reading (IR) books. We found text evidence to support our claims using our fiction texts, and we participated in readers' theater groups. We also continued closely reading and thinking critically about nonfiction texts from Scholastic Scope. We read nonfiction texts on Newsela, we practiced writing strong paragraph responses, we continued our vignette projects, worked on research projects, and responded to journal prompts. THOUGHT FOR DECEMBER...

"Christmas, and the end of the year, is definitely a time when people try their hardest to begin afresh, a good time; a kind, forgiving, charitable, pleasant time; when men and women seem by one consent to open their shut-up hearts freely."

- A Christmas Carol by Charles Dickens

ELA Grades 6-8...

Middle School English Language Arts Curriculum is aligned to the New Jersey Student Learning Standards for English Language Arts. We use the workshop model of instruction in both reading and writing. Students read and write across a wide variety of genres as well as study the effective uses of writing, mechanics, and grammar. The curriculum supports, encourages, and facilitates choice/independent reading that allows students to pursue topics and genres of interests. The curriculum also embeds text activities and literacy experiences that engage students in reading partnerships and deep, thoughtful discussions.

Sixth Grade texts include read alouds, poetry, nonfiction articles from Newsela and Scholastic Scope magazine, fiction texts, short stories, and the novels Hoot, by Carl Hiaasen and Wonder, by RJ Palacio, and (possibly) Pax by Sara Pennypacker.

Seventh Grade texts include read alouds, poetry, nonfiction articles from Newsela and Scholastic Scope magazine, fiction texts, short stories, and the novels The Giver, by Lois Lowry, Holes by Louis Sachar, and (possibly) Drums, Girls, and Dangerous Pie, by Jordan Sonnenblick.
